Call it Creative – French Structuralism

By Lisa Semana and Others

Althusser and others are French structuralists.

We mean Slavoj Zizek is with French turns.

He wants it to be made into a proper analysis –

“What if we re-did the part about Soviet Union as French psychoanalytic poetry, like when we say, let us go for work, we also mean, with someone who loves the person.”

Bureuacratic Reports –

In fact I mean just documenting French structuralism, it has done wonders but needs Marxism. We need Marxism, and we add, Marxist history and method, beyond Sartre.

A Attempt at That from Slavoj Zizek –

First they wake up and go for a strike, Trotsky and Lenin. Something like that. In the future again there are revolts and histories, like India we feel goes that way. When we are struggling with debates on their crisis of health. We answer the same way, wake up and go for strike news. Health will be handled with someone who really knows this as – simple, just phenomenology, and there will be added a juice to keep it really natural. We mean this is analysis.
